How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite at such times. Thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before "your time," it should help relieve pain due to functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

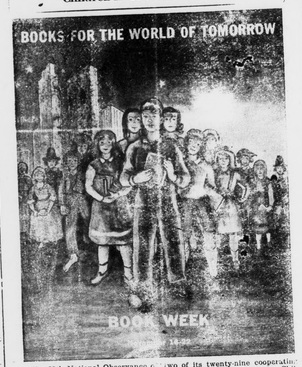
1947 Community Book Week Project To Aid Children In U. S. And Overseas



The 28th National Observance of Children's Book Week is being celebrated this week, November 16-22. The slogan around which libraries, schools and civic organizations are planning their annual programs is "Books for the World of Tomorrow".

The poster, shown above, has been designed by the noted illustrators of children's books, Ingri and Edgar Parin D'Aulaire. It depicts the many generations of American children who have been privileged to inherit an ever-increasing wealth of books written, designed and published solely for their delight and entertainment. Books like these can prepare them to be intelligent, tolerant and cooperative citizens in the world of tomorrow.

To activate this slogan, the Children's Book Council, 62 West 45th Street, New York City, which is also national Headquarters for Book Week information and aids, has initiated a special Book Week project for 1947. The Council tells us that at least eleven million American boys and girls are without access to library service or reading of any kind other than text books. This is a shocking fact, coupled with the knowledge that the United States is also the home of the greatest children's book industry in the world. The Council has therefore enlisted the help of two of its twenty-nine cooperating organizations, The Save the Children Federation and the Treasure Chest Campaign to put on the Treasure Chests U.S.A. program. This program was opened on October first to encourage more favorable communities to donate Treasure Chests of children's books to rural schools in the United States. (25,000 Treasure Chest books have already been donated and shipped to children overseas).

In its free manual which outlines this project, the Council says: "State Extension services, bookmobiles and individual teachers have done much with limited funds to correct these conditions. It is hoped that Federal aid will soon release more help to these young citizens in our disadvantaged areas, but until that time comes we can all help to share the great wealth of American children's books with our own brothers and sisters in this new and easy way."

Among the many countries who have received chests to date are the Philippines, China, France, Belgium, Greece, Poland, Russia and Siam. Chests can now be shipped to former enemy countries and have been received already in Japan, Germany and Austria. The Treasure Chest Campaign, though still an independent unit, is now working in cooperation with UNESCO.

Tapioca Starch Made From New Waxy Corn

A substitute for tapioca starch now is being made from waxy corn. It is enough like the real tapioca to have been used successfully for a few purposes formerly considered the rightful domain of tapioca.

The particular type of waxy corn was discovered in China by an American missionary. Seeds were sent to the United States 37 years ago. From this seed has been developed a satisfactory waxy hybrid.

Farmers Urged to Pay Cash for Machinery

In many cases it will be good business for farmers to spend more money for labor-saving machinery.

Many farmers are now in position to pay cash for machinery. By paying cash, they avoid the risks of having to pay this year's debts out of next year's income. They know that debt payments, which seem reasonable at present incomes, could be too heavy if income fell off sharply.

With increased shortage in labor and the high cost of labor, many farmers will find it profitable to gear their purchases of machinery toward those that offer the most in labor saving.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town. I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as overdressed wisecracks, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

4 ways YOU CAN HELP THEM HELP THEMSELVES

1 Use no sweet on Tuesdays. Do not serve any cuts of beef, lamb, veal, pork or ham at home nor ask for them in restaurants. On days you do use meat, buy the cheaper grades.

2 Use no eggs on Thursdays. Do not serve eggs at home and do not order them in restaurants.

3 Save a slice of bread every day. Every slice of bread, every bun, roll or muffin you save means more wheat to fight hunger abroad.

4 Remember when eating out, restaurants will serve bread and butter only on your special request.

Because of its quick action, the Australian clamp has several advantages over the screw type. One advantage is that the job does not move when the clamp is put into action; another is that it eliminates worry about splashing metal on threads.

Stockmen Are Warned Of Parasite Problem

A warning against the growing number of internal parasites affecting sheep and cattle has been issued by disease prevention specialists. Most destructive of the internal parasites of cattle include flukes, tapeworms, bladderworms, stomach roundworms, hairworms and whipworms. Wherever they exist, there is a continued risk that favorable conditions for them will result in a serious outbreak.

A MAN OF THE WORLD

Yes, and we mean in an important sense, for the eyes of the World are upon him.

He is the American farmer.

He, alone, among the farmers of the major nations, is able to feed his own countrymen and hungry millions in other lands. Last year he sent 20 million tons of food abroad while maintaining our own diet level—already the best in the world.

This high production efficiency—achieved by the persistent application of new tools and scientific discoveries—must be maintained in months to come. For food is still fighting for peace.

And so is steel.

Steel companies, which already have set new peacetime production records, are spending more than one billion dollars on improvements and expansion to meet the needs of reconstruction abroad and our expanding economy at home.

Through steel and farm production lies a great source of American strength. And only the strong can hope to keep the peace.
